IMITATION BAKING POWDERS.

TO THE PUBLIC:

The public is warned against the practice of many grocers who, what they claim to be Royal Baking Powder, sell in bulk, without label or trade-mark. All powders are base imitations. Analyses of bulk powders sold as baking powders sold in bulk to purchasers for Royal have shown them all to be largely adulterated, mostly with alum, dangerous for use in food and comparatively valueless for leavening purposes.

The public is well aware of the injurious effect of alum upon the system, to need further caution against the use of baking powders known to be made from it; but the dealer's assurance, "Oh, it's just as good as Royal," or "it's the genuine Royal, only we buy it in the barrel to save expense of cans," etc., is intended to deceive unsuspecting consumers into buying an article which they would not knowingly use in their food under any consideration. The only safety from such practices is in buying baking powder in the original package, of a well known brand, thoroughly established reputation.

The Royal Baking Powder is sold only in cans, securely closed with company's trade mark label, and the weight package stamped on each cover. It is never sold in bulk, by the barrel, or loose by weight or measure, and all such offered the public under any pretext are imitations.

If consumers will bear these facts in mind, and also see that the package purchased is properly labeled, and the label intact, they will be always sure of using a baking powder perfectly pure and wholesome, and of highest strength in the market.

J. C. HOAG, President,
Royal Baking Powder Co., N. Y.

[illegible] threats long ago, [illegible] has been abandoned.

Spanish American Claims.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The secretary of state in instructions to the advocate for the United States before the Spanish American claims commission says: This department must insist: First—That there is no power in this department and none has been conferred on the commission to examine into good faith, which can in these cases is understood to signify the purpose and object of the applicant in seeking naturalization; the only question in each is whether the person claiming to be a naturalized citizen has been naturalized; there is no law in the United States requiring an applicant to disclose the motives which induced him to change his nationality. Second—That there is no power in this department nor any power conferred upon the commission to make it a condition of relief that the applicant for naturalization should have been actually present in the United States for five years immediately previous to naturalization; residence may consist with an uninterrupted probationary period. Third—That it is not the law of the United States that naturalization can, when the insult of the country of its origin, [illegible] effect [illegible] the government of said country chooses voluntarily to concede, on the contrary this department is expressly directed by the laws of the United States to recognize and maintain the reverse of this proposition. I cannot consent that a commission, deriving its power from this department, together with the foreign department of Spain, shall assume to pass judgment upon a question which this department is expressly forbidden to consider.

Railway Postal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—On June 30th as there were in operation 760 railway postoffices, conducted in 54 whole cars and 862 apartments in cars and run over 87,0[illegible] miles of railroad, making 76,5[illegible],438 miles of annual service. A total of 3609 postal clerks are in the service, with salaries aggregating $4,[illegible], or an average annual salary of $1[illegible]. During the year the railway postal clerks handle and distribute 3,[illegible],213 letters and postal cards and 1,27[illegible] pieces of other mail matter, or a total of all classes of ordinary mail matter of 3,[illegible],180, beside 14,241,310 registered packages and 571,481 through registered pouches. It is estimated that for next year for railway postal clerks, $3,97[illegible] is needed, an increase of 2 per cent over the appropriation of the present year; for postoffice cars $1,[illegible], an increase of $[illegible] over this year and for special facilities $409,000; less than the present year.

David Davis' Chances.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The Evening Post says: There are some fears that enough independent, greenback, anti-monopolist and prohibitionist candidates, who are running in nearly all the districts of Illinois, may be elected to insure them the balance of power in the legislature, which is to elect a U. S. senator to succeed David Davis. In that case it is very certain that Davis would be a candidate for reelection. Probably they have a better chance for success than he had when he was elected before.

It is known that his friends are endeavoring to elect to these separate individuals of moment enough in the hope that the result will be to take the power away from both great parties.

There is not the remotest chance that the democrats can control the legislature, and republican leaders claim to have no fear [illegible].

The Jeannette Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Before the Jeannette board of inquiry Lieut. Danenhower was recalled and asked the following question: "Do you know of anything in the management of the Jeannette which subsequent experience proved prejudicial and which could have been averted?"

His reply was, "It is a question of judgment which is called for by the board and when embarked on the expedition it was as due by the judgment of the commander, and I do not wish to oppose my judgment to that of the commander or other, unless it is absolutely required of me."

The court was then cleared for consultation.

After half an hour the doors were reopened and the witness was asked: "Are there any material facts about the management of the Jeannette coming within your own knowledge which you have not stated?"

Answer—"No sir. Canned goods were generally bad and were destroyed from time to time."

Melville's Narrative.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Chief Engineer Melville sent his report yesterday to the secretary. It is a graphic narrative of the Jeannette expedition from the time when, after parting at dinner, the crew separated into three sections. This report, therefore, supplements the ship's log and DeLong's own minutes, all of which were preserved, and thus completes the history of the ill-fated expedition. The report is accompanied by a carefully drawn chart, which shows in detail all the wanderings of the explorers. The story of the events of July 12th and 13th, attendant upon the loss of the Jeannette, then considered.

Shall an Officer Pay his Debts?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The secretary of war has submitted to the judge advocate general for an opinion the question whether persistent refusal on the part of an officer of the army to pay his just debts does not make him liable to trial by court martial upon the charge of conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman.

Would Not Save Lives.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The attention of the supervising inspector of steam vessels was called yesterday to a dispatch from Chicago stating the three deaths from drowning, which occurred there last Monday afternoon were the result of a strange ruling of inspecting inspectors of steamboats that tugs must not under a penalty of $500 for each person carried, take any passengers on board. The supervising inspector general says no regulation was ever made by the department or by the supervising inspector which could be so construed into a prohibition of saving by tugs of the lives of drowning people. He heard rumors that the tug men of Chicago had threatened to take the means referred to to secure a repeal of the existing law.

About Indian Agents.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The president has suspended Jonathan Diggs, Indian agent of the Colorado river agency, and appointed John W. Clark as his successor. The secretary declined to accept of the resignation pending the result of the investigation now in progress.

RAILWAY RACKET.

Pacific Coast Rail and Report.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Armstrong, commissioner of Pacific coast railroads, will submit to the secretary of the interior to-morrow an abstract of his forthcoming report on land grant roads. Armstrong says in recent visits to the Pacific coast he found in doubt as to the best method of dealing with the railroad problem. He thinks many of the complaints against the Central Pacific are ill-founded; that a national commission would afford very little relief, and he believes there [illegible] information obtained before any [illegible] legislation on the subject is attempted.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The transport Lydian Monarch from Egypt, with the Household cavalry, entered the West India dock this evening. Large crowds welcomed the troops with much enthusiasm. The Duchess of Teck and the Duke of Albany visited the ship. The troops march through London to the barracks to-morrow.

CAIRO, Oct. 19.—The difficulty in regard to counsel for Arabi Pasha continues. Possibly a compromise may be found in allowing counsel to advise Arabi, but prohibiting them from addressing the court.

The total effective strength will be 12 battalions of infantry, two of mounted infantry, two regiments of artillery, two squadrons of cavalry, each 450 strong, six batteries of artillery with 130 men and four guns for each, 100 engineers, a transport and ambulance corps, 800 men and two regiments of gendarmeries, numbering 700 each. There is in consideration a proposal favoring the importation of coolies to replace the natives as army servants.

Mining Troubles in France.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Threatening placards are nightly posted on the walls of the Montceau-les mines, and threatening letters also sent to the managers. Several arrests have been made, including that of Bordat, the principal ringleader and notorious anarchist. The trial of 23 rioters begins at Chalons, Wednesday. The indictment charges a conspiracy to wage civil war, coupled with death.

Affairs in Spain.

MADRID, Oct. 19.—Negotiations between the red republicans and Marshal Serrano for the formation of a monarchical liberal party continue to meet with great difficulties owing to the want of accord with regard to the reform of the constitution. Marshal Serrano expects an interview with Minister Sagasta again shortly, in order to effect a compromise. It is thought, however, the arrangement will be difficult unless Sagasta consents to abandon the Carlists, whom Marshal Serrano, in consequence of their conservative tendency, considers an insurmountable obstacle to the proposed reforms. Sagasta strongly opposes a reform of the constitution.

El Correo states that General Martinez Campos, minister of war, desires to retire from politics. At the cabinet council Wednesday the present ministers decided to retain their posts until a meeting of the Cortes and await the result of the vote.

Marshal Serrano stated in an interview that he was ready to accept office if the king summoned him, to form the ministry, from the left. Many republicans, at present followers of Sagasta, would join him, he said, and he was convinced the prosperity of Spain would be enhanced by a progressive policy, which alone was calculated to disarm republicanism. If he fails to reconstruct the cabinet, he will retire to private life.

King Alfonso, accompanied by Prime Minister Sagasta, Minister of Agriculture and Minister of War Saragosa and Horses, are to assist at the opening of the railroad connecting the Spanish and French systems.

A royal decree is published authorizing the prolongation until Dec. 15, of commerce with countries which accept the basis which Spain has proposed for the new treaty.

Serrano, in an interview yesterday, said: "I consider King Alfonso well disposed towards a liberal policy. Spain has progressed so much that all we want is two great parties and two sincere policies, and no more pasture for officious or timid governments. I think a very slight modification of the constitution of 1869 would be acceptable to King Alfonso. I decline to examine into the causes, particularly of the present cabinet; but parties who do not fulfill their programme must give way to political affinities."

Castillo and Castelar are of the opinion that the attitude of Serrano is the most important and decisive one since the restoration of the Bourbon.

Stanley on Africa.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—H. M. Stanley, at a banquet to-night, said the assertions of the newspapers relative to De Brazza were erroneous. De Brazza had traveled 1000 miles, of which only 150 was unexplored, and obtained insignificant results, despite his superior resources. Stanley declared the natives did not understand the treaty they had been induced to sign. De Brazza, he asserted, had betrayed the international association in that he had established French stations with the resources provided by that association.

At the close of Stanley's speech De Brazza unexpectedly entered the room. He said he came there to welcome Stanley, in order that it might be seen as an established fact that he did not regard Stanley as an antagonist, but as a co-laborer in the same field.

Success of the Parnellites.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Times' Dublin correspondent says it is evident if there is no schism in the Irish national party there is so wide a difference in the lines of action advocated by Davitt and Parnell that it is hardly possible they can pull in the same harness. The Parnellites secured a third of the representation upon the new council. This gives them practically a preponderance of power, as it is probable a sufficient number of their friends will be elected by the county conventions to give them a decided majority.

Denouncing O'Connor.

DUBLIN, Oct. 19.—Mr. Louden, delegate to the Irish national conference, who was hooted at by the conference in attempting to speak, writes the Freeman's Journal that he knows he has drawn upon himself the hatred of the Irish members of parliament, particularly that of Thomas Power O'Connor. He (Louden) says he always held that the American subscribed to assist the victims to the tyranny of landlords and not to give bloated salaries to the Irish members of parliament.

Dissension among Themselves.

DUBLIN, Oct. 19.—Hugh O'Donnell, M. P., writes that though he is determined to support the conference programme he cannot join the council, which he says is so constituted that if only a small number of the county delegates are sufficiently flexible, its whole control will be in the hands of the sixteen nominees of the Irish parliamentary party.

The Prussian Election.

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—Nearly two-thirds of the voters of Berlin abstained from voting. The return of sitting progressists of the [illegible] from this city is, however, still considered certain. The Germania, clerical organ, received intelligence from Cologne that the ultramontanes had secured a majority there.

Boss Rule in Pennsylvania.

The following is from a report of an interview with Mr. Stewart, independent republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, published in the New York Herald:

The tyranny, the corruptions and the maladministration of the Cameron ring in this state threaten the very existence of the party. The regular organization is a republican. To give the management of the party machinery into the hands of one representative of republican principles and honesty we have combined to overthrow the ring that now controls it. General Beaver will never be the governor of Pennsylvania. It is well known that he has long wished the nomination. He was once before a candidate for the nomination and his friends established headquarters for him at Harrisburg. His record as a soldier and upright man was certainly not less brilliant than that last May. But General Beaver had been ranked as among those who opposed Cameron's rule. He got twelve votes in that convention, and the improvement in his prospects dated only from the national convention at Chicago. [illegible], there has been heretofore but one door through which a republican in Pennsylvania [illegible] repeated now what I have already said in a public speech—could enter the political arena; there has been but one ladder on which he could mount to political distinction. Except as he has acknowledged allegiance to the reigning house, and has committed himself to its support, except as he has surrendered his independence and his dignity, his manhood, he has been excluded from public life by a proscription as relentless as fate. Character has been of no avail against it; ability and superior fitness count not to it; [illegible] or favor has not been able to turn it aside.

FRIDAY MORNING, OCT. 20, 1882.

A PLACESEEKER'S SELFISHNESS.

In contending now, as he is for no election, J. H. Mitchell is only pursuing the course of utterly reckless selfishness so characteristic of his whole career. Ten years ago he was a candidate, with the record of a most disgraceful and criminal life behind him, which, upon his election, was sure to be disclosed; yet he selfishly drew his friends and his party into a position of greatest embarrassment, careless of the consequences, provided only that himself could obtain the object of his ambition and desire. Again, when those disclosures were made he selfishly insisted upon an expression from his party in his behalf which produced its disruption and caused its defeat in four several elections. Now again he is pressing himself with every energy of desperate effort upon his party, regardless of the effect upon its future and its fortunes. Knowing that a republican legislature could not possibly be elected in the state if he were openly contending, he kept away, but had his agents of the mercenary class at work under concealed secrecy in all parts of the state; and just before the legislature was to assemble he appeared on the scene, to produce again the disturbance and dissension which he had so frequently caused before by pressing with his unscrupulous efforts his selfish "claims."

He has forced upon the republican party a contest which threatens its existence in this state, and from which it can escape with safety only by setting him aside now and forever. His presence on this occasion was sure to revive a strife of greatest acrimony and bitterness, for the opposition to him rests on grounds which cannot possibly be overcome, and yet this fact, so obvious to every one, was ignored by himself. He is fond of saying that the opposition has its origin in insufficient and unworthy motives, that is to say, in personal enmity to himself, arising from supposed injuries and motives of hatred and revenge. But in fact it springs from natural disapproval of his character, of his life, of his methods as a politician and his conduct as a man. In such a case the mere personal feeling of dislike is nothing. It could not stand a moment. But when the disapproval rests on a clear sense of the man's utter unworthiness, it has a moral basis that renders it forever immovable.

As his intrusion into this contest in the face of an opposition so general and so justly founded was resolved and planned without the least regard to propriety or to the effect upon the republican party, for whose welfare he constantly professes a hypocritical solicitude, so now in contending for no election since he can't be elected, he is governed by the same monumental selfishness. He never cared for the republican party except as he could use it for his own objects and ends. He has been to it the cause of bitter dissension and continuous defeat, and again deliberately plans and pursues a course leading to the same results. Possibly the legislature may adjourn on this occasion without electing a senator but we do not think it will. Should it do so, however, J. H. Mitchell will not be present at the session of 1884. He will see in advance the uselessness of being the H. W. S.

THE LAST DITCH.

Among a class of persons at Salem who have all their expectations staked on the success of the professional dispenser of spoils the talk still is, "Mitchell or nobody." These men are hunting "the last ditch." If they keep on they will find it. It is not far ahead. They will be plumped right into it the moment the legislature adjourns without electing a senator.

Should there be no election the whole matter will be clearly understood. The public will see at once that a "pool" was made, into which all the offices and all conceivable jobs were swept together; that each of the "last ditch" members was contending for his dividend or share, and that when the hopes failed the disappointed shareholders in the pool sulked, and would allow no one to be elected. We do not say that this is the state of the case, but only that it will bear this interpretation if no election be allowed. In that event the members of the next legislature who might be disposed to renew the cry of "Mitchell or nobody," will be extremely lonesome.

To an extraordinary degree Mitchell has the power of drawing around him every man who can be influenced by appeals to his cupidity. Here is the main source of his strength as a politician. Whatever is selfish or sordid in a man this corrupt and debased politician will find at once. He thinks of no other way of approach. Hence it is that J. H. Mitchell has done more than all other men to debauch the politics of Oregon.

To-day will end the most indecent contest that ever took place in any state. That is, this day will end the contest for the present; but if there should be adjournment without an election, the contest will simply be carried over to 1884. Then those who say "Mitchell or nobody" will go into the abyss and learn how dark and lonely it is at the bottom. They needn't elect to-day if they don't want to; but if they don't, we shall have a jolly election in two years, and the people will then relieve them of all further political cares.

THE REGISTRY ACT BEATEN.

Many good citizens will regret the defeat of the proposed law to require the registration of voters. It was a measure which has long been wanted. Frauds are of constant occurrence in our elections, which would be prevented by this act. The lawful voter, if registration were required, could always be sure that his vote would not be overborne by those of persons who had no legal right. Nearly all the states have laws of this kind. No demand for their repeal would be listened to for a moment, because it is considered of highest importance to guard the ballot-box against illegal voting. Professional politicians, who traffic in votes, may not coincide in this opinion of the people; but the fact that they do not only adds another to the many reasons for enactment of such a law.

The bill was a copy of the California law. The only argument presented against it was the assertion that it would be very inconvenient to voters in the country districts, who could not attend to registration, and who in consequence would lose their votes. Is this the result in California? That state is about twice as large as Oregon; many of the counties are of great size and their population is small and sparse; yet no complaint of disenfranchisement comes from there. Citizens easily find time to register, and think it no hardship. The man who could not find time to attend to this duty would not find time to go out to vote; and if he prized the suffrage so little that he would not attend to the first he pretty certainly would neglect the last.

It has not escaped attention that this solicitude for citizens of the sparsely settled districts came not from their own representatives, but from the city of Portland. This solicitude may be interpreted by some as rather more significant than pathetic. Yet Multnomah, the county in which four-fifths of the illegal voting in the state is carried on, is the county more than all others requires a registry. The time will come when the country members will put up a unanimous demand for a law, to keep their honest votes from being borne down by the increasing weight of illegal voting in Portland. It will not be a question of whether the voters in the country districts can afford to take time to register, but whether it will be worth their while to go to the polls when, no matter what they may be, it will be useless to cast them against the illegal votes thrown in Portland. Sooner or later there must be a registry law. It has been wanted for years, and ought to have been enacted at this session.

The New York Tribune, a journal whose devotion to the republican party is unquestioned, says: "The boasted harmony of the democratic party of New York, the [illegible] republicans is at the conduct of the State convention and the revolt against Cameron and bossism in Pennsylvania, all are traceable to one cause. The federal administration has interfered in the politics of the states, and has interfered not wisely, using its patronage to overcome the will of the voters." Another phase of the same proceeding is presented in Oregon. A candidate for the senate who has acquired a reputation as a broker in offices and spoils, draws a crowd around him who hold out for personal gain, and the consequence is a most disgraceful contest, with a chance of no election.

An eastern paper says the harrowing suspicion is entertained that Frank James' object in surrendering himself to the authorities is to make peace with the public that he may take the platform and tell his experiences under the title of "Twenty Years as a Highwayman." In this way he could get even with the public for getting him to be a bold, bad man.

An Oregon paper quotes Senator Grover as saying that "there is no excuse for the opposition to Mitchell." If Grover has said that it will hardly do Mitchell any good, but will serve as a reminder to the public that the political methods of Grover and Mitchell are identical and alike understood by all except the spoils-hunting gang of the two parties.

Last night Mitchell issued a long "open letter." Its purport was that he considered himself "in the hands of his friends." He would have far it better had he kept out of their hands from the beginning. They were injudicious friends who failed to advise him that he ought to keep out of this contest.

A remarkable outbreak of independence recently took place in Indiana. A number of democrats from all parts of the state held a convention and objected to "the delivery of the democratic party to a lawless liquor league."

A leading railway journal shows that the average earnings of 69 of the principal railroads of the country for the month of August this year were $562 per mile. The average for August of last year was a little more.

The blessed place like thine to gain.

FROM THE CAPITAL.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

SALEM, Oct. 19—1 A. M. The Mitchell men [illegible] caucus to-night and have [illegible]. They decided to stand by Mitchell to the end of the session. A resolution to that effect was adopted by an aye and no vote of twenty [illegible]. The meeting was at first called to accomplish [illegible] merely and not to have [illegible] and with [illegible] Wentworth, and [illegible]. This evening Mitchell issued an open letter, saying he was in the hands of his friends. [illegible] the strength from the state point at least, will vote [illegible] appeal to his supporters to stand by him. [illegible] of them have determined to do this to a finish, preferring to stand by Mitchell rather than the party's interests. Democrats are pleased with the prospects of a deadlock and will vote for adjournment after the [illegible]. Both factions of the democratic party will probably come again [illegible] adjournment with the purpose of putting the [illegible] dead lock on the other, and a tedious series of ballots will probably result. There will [illegible] be defections from Mitchell, but [illegible] nine or more [illegible] obstruct an election, they [illegible] will be easily played. Independents hold a meeting to-night, and are as solid as on the first day of the session, so Mitchell has no chance of an [illegible] ballots to-morrow. It is possible that after two or three ballots to-morrow half a dozen or more of the Mitchell people will vote for some republican specially obnoxious to democrats for the purpose of drawing democratic votes to Mitchell, but it is not probable that so thin a ruse will accomplish anything. Slater and other renegade democrats will stay by Mitchell to the last. There now seems no doubt that the session will end without an election.

Somebody charges Gen. Butler with being the author of "Lindsey(?)." The mud-slinging of the campaign has begun.—Lowell Citizen.

Notwithstanding the counter attractions at the [illegible] the audience greeted Mrs. Dr. Potts at [illegible] last evening. The doctor [illegible]

[illegible] physical health. Her lecture was [illegible] of that changed her listeners [illegible] and then some unpalatable truth concerning [illegible] against nature was enforced by the speaker with burning earnestness, it touched the conscience like a live coal before the hearer had time to fortify himself against its reception. Her thorough knowledge of her subjects and skill in handling those of a delicate nature give her special prominence in her chosen field. More than all, she "talks like a woman," with that easy grace and bewitching vivacity which is always captivating, whether listened to in the freedom of a parlor face to face or from the platform.

To-night the doctor delivers her famous lecture to husbands and wives, when no gentleman will be admitted unless accompanied by a lady.

THE SENATORIAL QUESTION.

Oregon City Enterprise.

Mitchell's friends now admit that it is impossible to elect him. They do not all say it in words, but from the conversation it is easy to infer what they believe. Nearly the whole of them admit that it would be suicidal to them individually and to the party, to elect no one. Those who do not admit it and say "Mitchell, or no election," are of the class that have no interest or stake in the country, no standing at home and no hope for the future, in fact those who have ever been the representatives of a faction rather than of their constituents. When it became apparent that it was impossible to elect Mr. Mitchell, against whom we have never written a word, it was the duty of every republican member in the legislature to look for a new man. This the eighteen have conscientiously done, but so far to little purpose. 'Tis true that some of the "old sixty" have seen the futility of their course, have ceased voting for Mr. Mitchell and have tried to elect some one else. This is the duty of every republican in the legislature. The republicans of Oregon demand that a republican senator be elected. Every one cannot be satisfied and if one man cannot get votes enough it is an easy matter to find one that can, and we believe that there are eligible candidates that would give greater satisfaction to the party at large than Mr. Mitchell. Against him there is a very bitter feeling among many good republicans, and if elected senator it is gravely predicted that to the republican party of Oregon it would be an irretrievable disaster. This should receive some consideration, and we believe it has been one of the factors in the present conflict. It is a fact, denied by none, that there are able and eligible men who would be a credit to the state and who would be the means of uniting the whole party—men who would be satisfactory to both sides. We have yet to find the man in Clackamas county who says: "If it is not Mitchell we do not want any one." We believe and have said it, that every member of the legislature from Clackamas county will bury his own personal preferences for the public good. We also hope that Mr. Mitchell, who has been so well treated by the people of Oregon will now see that it is his duty to withdraw rather than leave Oregon unrepresented in the senate of the United States.

Salem Statesman.

Upon Mr. Mitchell must rest the responsibility of a non-election. Had he been less selfish and more patriotic, he would have withdrawn from the contest when he saw that his candidacy was introducing discord into the party, which could only end in defeat. His conduct now, however, is in accord with his whole career. He has always been a power for evil, never for good. He has done more to debauch the politics, morals and methods of the state than all other agencies combined. But justice will surely be done when the people at the ballot box come to pass upon his conduct, and, in their righteous indignation, they will bury him out of sight.

Farmers Holding Back Grain.

New York Herald.

It will be news to many readers that western farmers are holding the greater portion of their grain for higher prices. Generally the farmer has been compelled to sell his grain at whatever price he could get for it, and if any one held it for a rise it would be the speculator at Chicago, Milwaukee or elsewhere. But the farmer, in spite of what people say about him, is a progressive individual; he reads the papers and he saves money, so when he sees a possibility of gaining much by waiting a little while, as some observers of European affairs say there is now, the farmer quietly astonishes the public and disgusts the speculators by organizing a "corner" on his own grain. It is good for all and every one else that the farmer is forehanded enough to be able to hold back his wheat and corn for higher prices. If any money is to be made on the products of his industry the people would rather see it made by the farmer himself than by the speculators, who use wheat and everything else as a mere cue for gambling.

Cattle Disease.

Walla Walla Union.

Tom McManamon, who has charge of the cattle belonging to Curie, Ennis & Co., returned this morning from the upper country and reports that the calves and yearlings are dying in great numbers, especially in the neighborhood of Cow creek and Twelve Mile springs. The news from all over Whitman county, and in fact from all the cattle ranges to the north, in the Grand Ronde valley and Wasco county, the disease is having the same disastrous effect. Blackleg is similar to diphtheria, the animal filling up at the throat and choking to death. The disease rarely attacks cattle over a year old but those so attacked die in a short time, there being no remedy applied that has proved effective. In removing the skin from the dead animal it is found that the flesh and blood is black.

One hundred men, says the Weiser Leader, and as many teams, have commenced grading on the Oregon Short Line Railroad, near the Canyon house, 10 miles below Weiser City.

Spokane Falls Chronicle: Fifty-nine buildings have gone up in Spokane Falls since spring, fifteen are now in the process of erection, out of this number the proportion of really strong, substantial buildings is very gratifying. Mr. Glover's new store, Mr. Saiser's block, the remodeled California House, Mr. Ziegler's store, the N. P. freight depot, Levy & Rainey's warehouse and the new Baptist church, to say nothing of the many neat and tasteful private residences which have gone up during the summer, would do credit to any town in the east.

A new townsite has been laid out by Chas. Ward in a very pretty location between the towns of Pomeroy and Pataha, in Garfield county, to be known as Berlin. A street one and a half miles long, and 120 feet in width has been laid out and graded. Mr. Minnick has erected a dwelling house costing 7000. A store is in course of construction and a blacksmith is about to establish there. Parties are now making arrangements for the immediate construction of a large three-story flouring mill and a planing mill that will meet the requirements of the valley. A fine water power, with a fall of 130 feet, an with sufficient water to run a half dozen mills, is owned by Mr. Ward and can be brought to the town site with but little expense.

Walla Walla Union: R. A. Rice, a farmer residing on the Walla Walla river, sowed some rye three years ago in a patch of soil covered with stubble. After sowing he harrowed it in the seed and without other cultivation which over he has harvested three crops, the two first yielding fifteen bushels to the acre, and the last being a still heavier yield. The crops volunteer [illegible] sowed them from the shattered grain. He received two and a half cents per pound for his seed. This year Mr. Rice has turned the soil and prevent further volunteering and will plant wheat with the same seed, during it at rye [illegible] of more profit to him than wheat. While we consider volunteering poor farming, we believe farmers would do well to experiment with rye, if for no other purpose than a rotation of crops.

Every effort was made to save the building, and the flames were not extinguished until after the upper story had been destroyed. The fine library and valuable furniture were badly damaged. The house was a two-story frame, cottage roof. The loss is estimated at $4000; no insurance. The accidental overturning of a candle in a dark closet in the second story was the cause of the fire.

The present supply of tonnage [illegible] for all needs [illegible] that holders of vessels will allow freights [illegible] for serious reductions. No new charters [illegible] reported.

Our Carrying Trade.

By keeping the facts in connection with our carrying trade continually before the [illegible] consideration, it is possible a change from [illegible] present state of that trade may be brought about.

The following figures show the gradual decline of American shipping has not abated:

AMERICAN AND FOREIGN TONNAGE [illegible] OF THE UNITED STATES FROM [illegible] IN THE FOLLOWING YEARS [illegible]

Fiscal years	American tonnage.	Foreign tonnage.	American in excess of foreign tonnage	Foreign in excess of American

The excess of the foreign over the domestic tonnage began in 1864 and has continued to increase ever since, till the foreign tonnage entering American ports is about fourfold the American.

ENGLISH MARKETS.

The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the English markets, says: The weather continues favorable. In some provincial markets a shilling higher is offered for dry wheat. In the London market prices are unchanged. Flour is dull, but quotations are nominally unaltered. Malting barley is in steady demand. Oats are hardening. The foreign wheat trade is in a state of suspense and prices remain the same, except for red winter, which is about 6d higher. Flour is quotably unaltered; stocks are very heavy and imports are likely to continue on a large scale. Maize is about 2s dearer, the available supply being very small. Off coast cargoes are very quiet, buyers acting with great caution. There were fifteen fresh arrivals, seven cargoes were sold, six withdrawn and eleven remain, nine of which are American. Over twenty cargoes are due this week. Sales of English wheat past week were 1[illegible],807 quarters at 39s 8d per quarter, against 61,378 quarters at 47s 1d for the corresponding period last year.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—Wool is steady but in moderate demand for all kinds, and prices continue to be sustained with fair average transactions. Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces 41@42c for X, and 42½@43c for XX and above, Michigan X fleeces at 39@40c. Combing and delaine fleeces in demand, with sales at 44@46c for fine delaine, and 46@48c for fine and medium combing. Unwashed is steady and in demand at [illegible] for fine and medium grades, and 18@24c for low and coarse. In California spring wool sales have been moderate and principally at 25@35c. For fall California there is no inquiry. Pulled wools are in fair demand and firm, with steady demand for choice eastern and Maine supers at 45@50c, common and good supers 38@40c. No desirable assortment of foreign wools is on the market and very little has been done.

Industrial Notes.

R. V. Storrs & Co., manufacturers woolens, at Dedham, Mass., failed on Thursday; liabilities $400,000; nominal assets $215,000. It is alleged, up to within a few days, creditors of the concern have been misled by statements concerning its resources. Some months ago, it is stated, the firm claimed to have large assets over their liabilities. William S. Slater is an endorser to a large amount of the concern's papers and as it was believed he owned much real estate his endorsements were generally accepted. Investigation, however, discloses the fact that he does not own a large amount of property, and some recent transfers have been made which have a questionable appearance.

A draft of 30 head of Jersey cattle from the herd of Gen. A. Guitar, of Boone county, Missouri, was sold at St. Louis on Thursday for $11,500, the most successful sale of Jerseys ever known.

The National Cotton Planters' Association is in session at Little Rock, Ark., and attended by large delegations from all southern states.

Reports come in from the farming districts of Texas that a great deal of cotton is open in the fields and laborers are very scarce.

Discovering that a corner was being run in rubber goods, manufacturers held a meeting at New York, Wednesday night, to consider the best course to pursue. After discussion, the general sentiment was favorable to closing the factories.

French imports during the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1882, as compared with the same months in 1881, show an increase of 99,900,000 francs. Exports for the same period show an increase of 316,000,000 francs.

Thus far 1882 has been an extraordinary year for fires. The estimated losses in the United States for eight months foot up more than $61,000,000, or $7,000,000 more than the average for four years.

Some idea of the rapid growth of the coffee trade of the world may be obtained from the fact that the total production, which was 675,000,000 pounds in 1859, has now risen to 1,300,000,000 pounds, or nearly double. As for the producing countries, it seems that Brazil now holds the first place, with a total of 560,000,000, against 330,000,000 in 1870. The emancipation of the slaves is, however, expected to lead to a falling off in the crop, unless the Chinamen and coolies imported from Asia should prove unexpectedly well suited for the work of cultivation. Next on the list are the Dutch Indian possessions and Venezuela.

It is estimated that over one-half of the new manufactories started in the south during the past two years belong to northern capitalists.

Nine nine locomotives and 11,097 car wheels were exported from the United States last year. During the same period there were exported 2,144,618 pounds of iron rails.

The consumption of tobacco in France the past five years has averaged 31,000 tons; twice the consumption in 1832. The revenue amounts to 350,000,000 a year.

The honey crop of 1882 is not expected to greatly exceed that of 1881, which was an indifferent one. California's crop in 1878 was 720,000 pounds. This year it is calculated at 1[illegible],000 pounds.

The Metropolitan board of works in London controls an area of 122 square miles, covered by a population of nearly 4,000,000. The royal parks cover 1742 acres and other open spaces 1876 acres. The largest of the "lungs of London" is formed by Hyde Park and Kensington Gardens, which together cover 348 acres, or a little more than a mile square.

The largest match factory in the United States is located at Akron, Ohio. It produces [illegible] a day, or about 7,000,000,000 a year, consuming 70 tons brimstone, 10,400 pounds of chlorate of potash, 30,000 pounds of glue, 50,000 pounds of paraffine wax and 150 tons of other paper.

James Caird of London estimates the requirements of Great Britain for foreign wheat, from September 1 to October 14, at 13,000,000 quarters, or about 900,000 quarters less than were imported during the same period last year.

Financial Matters.

The following noticeable failures have occurred during the week:

Thos. B Christian, storekeeper, [illegible], Va.; liabilities unknown; assets small.

Dempsienghi & Co., bankers, [illegible]; liabilities $102,000.

A. & C. Hope, [illegible]; [illegible] $270,000. A meeting of the creditors has been called.

Bankers of Chicago are anxious [illegible] approval of the ruling of Secretary [illegible] certificates can only be procured at [illegible] in New York, as it puts upon western [illegible] charges in each direction [illegible].

Gould brokers are bearish and Vanderbilt brokers bullish. Gen. Dodge says further issue today of Pacific stock is impossible, as under the charter issuance of stock for dividend purposes is not possible under any circumstances. Strong European support for Western is expected within twenty days.

A new Russian loan of £6,000,000, nominal, at three per cent, bonds at fifty, will be issued immediately by Rothschilds.

San Francisco Markets.

French engineers are steadily persevering in the work of reclaiming the desert of Sahara by means of artesian wells. A large number of wells have been sunk along the northern border, more than 50 in the Province of Constantine alone, and the work is advancing into the interior. One of the curious phenomena which the digging of these wells has brought to notice is the existence of fish and crabs at great depths. The French engineer, M. Jus, who for twenty years has directed the work, avers that he once boiled and ate a crab which had been drawn up from a depth of 250 feet, and that, moreover, it was of excellent flavor.

Furs have already appeared in Paris. Sealskin is not to have exclusive sway this winter, but is to share the honors with ermine, which is the most elegant of all furs. Large circulars and velvet pelisses are lined with ermine and bordered with fox. Something still more elegant is the pelisse lined with [illegible] or [illegible] China. This is a very peculiar fur with long white hair. It is close and deep [illegible] down.

Belfast Journal.

A rather sad affair took place on one of our streets the other day. A young lady with her arm full of bundles emerged from a dry-goods store, when one of them fell to the sidewalk without her noticing it. [illegible]

[illegible]

Wise Words to Gladstone.

From a speech in [illegible] 1881.

The [illegible] of a government, especially a government [illegible] [illegible] the interests of the people [illegible] the peasants of [illegible] [illegible] by [illegible] better than the [illegible] of the world, and to encourage the [illegible] spirit of domination; but to proceed upon a principle of reason, to support the [illegible] sisterhood and equality of nations, the absolute equality of public [illegible] among them; above all, to produce as a [illegible] temper so calm and so liberal [illegible] the public opinion of the country that nothing [illegible] to disturb it. The [illegible] of a government ought to be the [illegible] from Philip [illegible] to Philip sober.

I am not one of those who have ever professed to believe that the state which society has reached permits us to make a sort of universal proscription of [illegible] these cases the alternative of war. But I do say that a long experience of life leads me to [illegible] toward any [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and deeper conviction of the enormous false chiefs of war, even under the best and most favorable circumstances, and of the mischiefs indescribable and guilt unredeemed of causeless and unnecessary wars.

An emphatic recommendation was contained in a recent report of the New York State Medical Society, that there should be stores in the city where the poor can obtain wholesome and healthful food for children. [illegible] a supply of milk is urged, should be brought into the city twice a day for the children; this milk to be boiled, or else in carbonate of soda added to retard souring. For food, the report recommends powdered barley or oatmeal with sweet milk and eggs, with the following directions: Powdered barley, a package of one half pound to a child under 1 year of age every week; and two such packages for a child from 1 to 2 years; when oatmeal is required, it may be supplied in the same quantity as barley; eggs, seven a week for a baby a year old or less, and fourteen a week for a baby over a year old; sugar, half a pound a week; milk, twelve ounces for a baby under a year twice daily, and twenty ounces for a child over a year twice daily.

"You will find the painting looks better a little way off," said the artist. And Fogg asked, quite innocently, "Would half a mile be far enough off, do you think?"—Boston Transcript.

THE ALBINA HOMESTEAD is situated next to Albina, and between and fronting on both the extension of Front street, East Portland, and the Vancouver road. All the lots in Blocks 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30 are 50x120 feet, with twenty-foot alleys through the blocks. All the other lots are 50x100 feet. The streets are wide and have all been cleared, while the lots are high and level and can be very easily cleared.

We now offer for sale for a short time a limited number of these Lots and Blocks at reasonable prices and on easy terms. THE ALBINA HOMESTEAD is unquestionably the best field for investment and the most desirable place for location now in the market. Its close proximity to the cities of Portland and East Portland, and to the heavy improvements now being carried out by the various companies under the direction of Mr. Villard—the Dry Docks, Elevators, Machine Shops and other works of these companies—its nearness also to the Albina Ferry, together with the proposed Multnomah Railway from L street Ferry, in East Portland, [illegible] from Albina, will make this property very accessible from all parts of these cities. These advantages will necessarily attract a large population, and in the meantime many [illegible] this the most popular and valuable suburban property in this vicinity, while in the [illegible] future it must furnish homes for the rapidly increasing population of Albina, and then its value will be at least five times what we now offer it for.
